Claim Objections

Claim 7 is objected to because of the following informalities: The specification for performing the DIN EN ISO 2440 foreign test standard needs to be provided for the record. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claim 7 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. DIN EN ISO 2440 relates to a foreign test standard and applicants' supporting disclosure lacks adequate written description of the conditions under which the test are performed. The specification for performing the DIN EN ISO 2440 foreign test standard needs to be provided for the record. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-10 and 13-14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Sugiyama et al.(6,313,060) in view of JP-05163342.

Sugiyama et al. discloses preparations of flexible polyurethane foams by mixing and reacting polyols of low-unsaturation and having molecular weights as claimed and prepared using the double metal cyanide catalysts (DMC), and isocyanates under foam forming conditions to form resilient foamed articles (see the entire document).

Sugiyama et al.'s teachings differ from applicants' claims in that it does not particularly require renewable materials as initiators in the making of its DMC catalyzed polyols. However, Sugiyama et al. (see column 8 lines 26-42) is not limited to the specific initiator exemplified, and JP-05163342 discloses DMC catalyzed polyols made from initiators as defined by applicants' claims to be useful in polyurethane preparations (see the abstract, as well as, entire document). Accordingly, it would have been obvious for one having ordinary skill in the art to have employed the renewable material initiators for DMC catalyzed polyols disclosed by JP-05163342 in the preparations of Sugiyama et al. for the purpose of providing environmentally desirable and operationally acceptable reactive materials in products prepared in order to arrive at the products and processes of applicants' claims with the expectation of success in the absence of a showing of new or unexpected results.

Difference is not seen in the ranges of cyclic fatty acid ester content values of applicants' claims as content of these materials are not evident in the teachings of the prior art. Foams having excellent vibration, compression, and other physical properties would be expected from the combined teachings of the prior art. Accordingly, difference based on the ranges of compression values of applicants' claims is not seen. The recite "low" and "reduced" values referred to by the claims are relative and do not distinguish over the combined teachings of the prior art.

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Lorenz, Clark et al., Hsiao et al. are cited for their disclosure of relevant materials in the art.
